

Present Perfect Continuous Tense

Affirmative sentences

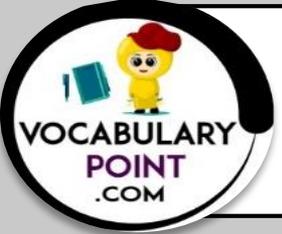

In this tense we use the present participle and ing is used. Helping verb which is used in this tense are “have been”, “has been”

Formation

Subject + has/have been+ ing form + object+ since/ for phrases.

Examples

- She has been taking bath since evening.
- Children have been making noise since morning.
- Many boys and girls have been participating in match for two years.

Future Perfect Continuous tense

Interrogative sentences

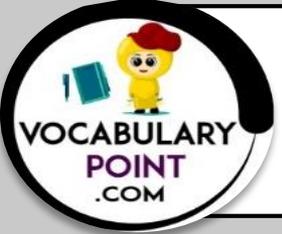

In the case of interrogative sentences we put the have or have in starting and last question mark placed.

Formation

Subject+ helping verb (has / have been) +1st form of verb + ing+ since/for + ?

Example

- Has he been reading a book since morning?
- Have they been going to hostel for two years?
- Has she been reading a novel since evening?
- Have they been going to station for two days?

Future Perfect Continuous tense

Negative sentences

In the making of the negative sentences we used have or has and before using been we put “not”.

Formation

Subject + helping verb (has, have) + 1st form of verb + ing + object + since /for phrases

Example

- He has not been reading a story since morning.
- Hellan has not been going to hospital since morning.
- They have not been going to park for two days.